3. Consider mediation, conciliation and possible amicable settlements;

4. Necessity or desirability of amendments, changes, or corrections;

5. To consider measures for immediate approval without plenary debate;

6. Avoid and to discourage lengthy and insignificant discussions in the plenary; and

7. Other matters calculated and designed to expedite the proceedings and which may aid in the prompt disposition of the measures under consideration.

Whenever a proposal or measure covers matters falling within the jurisdictions of more than one committee said proposal shall be referred to the committee within whose jurisdiction the principal subject matter falls. The committee acquiring jurisdiction over the measure or proposal shall be responsible to submit a report to the Sangguniang Panlalawigan incorporating therein the appropriate recommendations of other committee or committees which may have jurisdiction over the same measure or proposal.

Section 13. Issuance of Legislative Subpoena. - The committee may invite or issue subpoena to ensure the appearance of the chiefs of police or their subordinates or any persons or government officials and employees during committee meetings/ sessions/hearings to assist or to extend some information in aid of legislation. Disobedience to a subpoena issued by the sanggunian in the exercise of legislative functions will result to a legislative declaration against the disobedient person as a "persona non grata". The resolution declaring a person as a "persona non grata" shall be furnished the municipal executive and the legislative body of the place where the defiant person resides including the concerned local, provincial, regional, and national offices to include the Office of the President, House of Representatives, and the Senate of the Philippines.

In the exercise of quasi-judicial functions, the sanggunian may compel the appearance of any person pursuant to its subpoena powers in relation to Section 65 of the Local Government Code of 1991 (Rights of Respondent). Thus, in recognition of the right of the respondent in administrative investigation to confront and cross-examine the witnesses and to require the attendance of witnesses and the production of documentary evidences in his favor, the sanggunian is allowed to issue compulsory process of subpoena duces tecum. The sanggunian may invoke the aid of the Regional Trial Court to cite the defiant person in contempt pursuant to Rule 71 of the Rules of Court (DILG Opinion No. 22, s. 2009 dated 18 May 2009).

Section 14. Officers as Ex-officio Members - The presiding officer, floor leader, and assistant floor leader are ex-officio members of all committees. They may participate in the deliberations at committee meetings but shall not vote.

RULE – V

PUBLIC HEARING AND CONSULTATION

Section 15. Legislative Consultations- The Sangguniang Panlalawigan, through its respective committees, may conduct consultation and public hearing at the district level as well as at the provincial level, where the views and recommendations of various sector, both governmental and non-governmental shall be taken and duly recorded. The Sangguniang panlalawigan or any of its committees shall indicate the territorial areas where such consultations and public hearings, including draft resolutions submitted may be open to public inspection at reasonable office hours and under such guidelines as the Sangguniang panlalawigan may deem reasonable and necessary.

Section 16. Workshop & Committee Hearings. - The Sangguniang panlalawigan or any of its committees may conduct legislative workshops in cooperation with the local officials, non-governmental organizations services or civic clubs, religious societies and organizations and to appropriate funds intended for meals and snacks during the conduct of public or committee hearings and workshop. The Sangguniang panlalawigan or any of its committees may conduct committee or public hearings on specific issues and may, when appropriate, summon witnesses and invite resource persons in the process.
